

Day 18 - Huanan Preview

We called in at Huanan on our way to Jixi and found a loco in steam to run a special train for visiting officials. The railway staff were friendly and we had access to shed and yard. We return for the regular Saturday and Sunday passenger train in 3 days so more details will be added then.

C2 011 on a 3 coach train waits for the visitors.

Huanan now has a diesel - used last weekend while the steam loco was under repair.

It also has a working railbus.

This is one of two restored cabooses.

We posed for the railway staff who documented our visit.

A logging train is displayed in the new station forecourt with 21043 at the head.

Special train approaching the current end at Km2.

Loco rounding the curve to the current end of line.

Loco at the current end of line station after running round.

Back in the yard after a bit of shunting.

It appeared that the loco would move no more until Saturday.

That makes 2 steam tourist railways (Yujian and Huanan) we have visited to find an unexpected loco in steam. Lucky us!
