

Sandaoling - Day 7 - Friday 14 December 2018

Today we had a morning train to the coal yard. It went after shift change from Dongboli to the coal yard with a complete train to unload just 2 full wagons. The reasons for this were unclear.

The morning concluded on the washery line and we went down the pit in the afternoon until it clouded over. We walked out to the overlook above Ba-erzhan for our final shots of the day.

Sunset and train coincided well today.

So ended our last full day at Sandaoling. The write up for our last morning as well as some overall comments will come in a day or so (probably after we get back to Beijing).

John Raby